

Dear Silicon Investor Members:

Greetings. My name is Craig Longhurst. I am the Chairman of Knight Sac Media, the company that recently acquired and will operate Silicon Investor.

I come from the investment business - spent thirty years as a stock broker selling funds for Waddell & Reed, managing Dean Witter and Smith Barney offices, as an investment advisor and venture capitalist, starting and managing companies, taking them public, M&A's, reverse mergers and of course trading stocks. I remember the old days of EF Hutton, Shearson Leman, and Bear Stearns (for the old timers). One constant is change, roll-ups, consolidations, mergers, bull markets and bears.

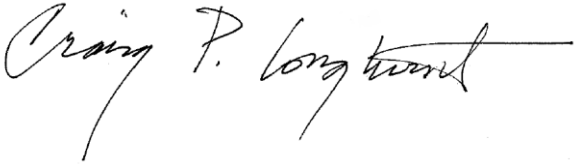

Silicon Investor has a longstanding history with the investment community. Retail traders, analysts, professionals, investors, large and small, and friends have enjoyed the resources brought together by the community that is Silicon Investor. SI bore witness to the dawn of the dotcom era that has grown and developed into our modern era of mobile phones, apps and technology beyond comprehension. In keeping pace with the future, our site must be the "safe keeper" of its history, its capabilities, and its technological applications.

Over the coming months Knight Sac Media will be upgrading infrastructure and implementing improvements that will make our site even more engaging, informative and advantageous to investors. We value your participation and the quality of your input to the site. After all, your comments, your research, your insights and your opinions are what make Silicon Investor the rich and valuable resource, community of friends and entertaining destination that it is.

We aim to make this transition as seamless as possible. We'll be improving and updating behind the scenes with the goal of making SI the ultimate social network for the informed investor. Comments, opinions, and evaluations of the site are greatly appreciated. Please share your ideas on our New Feature Discussion message board.

As a family of investors in the capital markets of the world, let's support each other, teach and learn from one another, and take advantage of this valuable and informative site. Participants and Silicon Investors, we've an exciting future together!

Warmest Regards,
